In this way, while meaning to do good to the cause of his people, he really does harm, for he effecually destroys his own value as a witness. The fact is greatly to be regretted that in this matter the average Armenian cannot be believed on oath. Thus whatever help is to be rendered to oppressed Armenians in Turkey must be decided upon without Armenian testimony.

"An Armenian came to me lately and said: 'Seventeen hundred Armenians have just now been massacred by Turks.'

"'How do you know?' I asked.

"'A refugee has just come in.'

'A refugee has just come in.'
'You wish me to publish that as a

"Yes. Why not? The people of England and America wish to know these things."
"Very well. Bring the refugee to me that I may write down his story."
"The so-called refugee was not a refugee of all, but simply a laborer from Erevan in search of work. His story amounted to this: In Everan he had heard a man say that another man in Etchmedzin had said that 1,700 people had been killed in the Bassoun massacre. Another Armenian was willing to swear to me on the Bible that 5,000 persons had been killed in the Sassoun massacre. In proof of this he said that so acre. In proof of this he said that so any persons were living in the Sassoun ountains before the massacre took place, d that an estimated number of thousands had escaped; hence, the missing, who num-bered 5,000, had been killed. But this man was moderate and rational. Some place the number at 19,000, arguing that only a few persons escaped from the mountains. What s the patient investigator to do with such

To such an extent has the fear of the volutionary movement taken hold of the ficials of Turkey that Americans and Englishmen find it next to impossible to trav-el in any part of Armenia, however remote from the vilayet of Bitlis. To an American from the vilayet of Bitlis. To an Amer citizen of Armenian birth it is simply ible to get into the country at all, no matter on what pretext. In connection with this matter it may be said that natd Armenians returning from America with American passports have a strong ten-dency towards making life a burden to Mr. Terrell. In seven cases out of ten the Armenian-American, on arrival at Constanti-nople, goes straightway to the American legation and asks for financial assistance."

Powers of the Foreign Delegates. LONDON, Feb. 21.-When the order of questions came up in the House of Comons this afternoon, Mr. Stevenson asked the government for information in regard to the proceedings of the commission which is making an inquiry at Moosh into the alleged atrocities on Armenians by the Porte. Sir Edward Gray said the foreign delegates are to be in constant attendance on the commission and are to be informed in regard to all its investigations. They can call for corrections in the daily reports, can, if necessary, direct the course of the inquiry by indicating the places to be visited or the persons to be examined, and can secure any question to be put in a satisfactory form, or, falling that, put the question themselves in the form they de-

HISSED BY ARMENIANS. Gen. Lew Wallace's Remarks Did Not Please the Refugees.

CHICAGO, Feb. 21.-Gen. Lew Wallace was openly hissed several times in Central Music Hall to-night during his lecture on "Turkey and the Turks." A large number of Armenians were in the audience, expecting that General Wallace would allude to the Armenian atrocities. He did so, but his remarks did not suit the Armenian portion of his audience, and they expressed their feelings without restraint. General Wallace praised the personal peculiarities of the Turks as a people and asked the people of America to suspend judgment in the ories of the massacre by the Turks and Kurds until the report of the international commission is received. He said it was only phase of an old story of a religious feud. He also praised the Armenians as a braved and peaceful people. As he fin-4shed that portion of his address in which he praised the Turks several men in the audience rose to their feet and hissed violently. General Wallace paid no attention to the interruption and continued his address as though nothing had happened, Later in the evening he spoke several times in praise of the Turks, and every time hisses came from the audience.

Has a Passion for Forgery.

CHICAGO, Feb. 21.—Isaac Rains, alias Fox, said to be the son of wealthy parents living in Ph ladelphia, was arrested to-day, charged with forgery. He admitted the particular crime on which the warrant was issued and furnished the police a long list of other people whose names he had forged. He promised to think up others over night, and said the number of his forgeries in Chicago alone would amount to full one hundred. He also admitted having committed a number of forgeries in Boston, New York, Philadelphia and other cities. Rains declared tonight that he had a passion for forgery and that, although his parents had spent much money in covering up his crimes and trying to reform him, he was unable to resist the fascination of committing forgery. All his forgeries in this city were for small amounts, but skillfully executed.

THE CRAFTY "SOPHS"

CONTEST AT WABASH COLLEGE BE-TWEEN LOWER CLASSMEN.

Prisoner in Terre Haule Jail Cut His Throat-Evidence in Kuhn Murder Trinl at Greensburg.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. CRAWFORDSVILLE, Ind., Feb. 21 .-There was a great time in Wabash College to-night between the freshmen and sophomore classes contesting for first place in athletic honors For several years the celebration of Washington's birthday among the students of the college has been in the hands of the members of the freshman and sophomore classes. It has always been the chief aim of each class to oppose anything done by the other. If one class attempted to place its "banner on the outer wall" of any building, it was the chief delight of the other class to pull it down. This has always resulted in more or less friction, and sometimes the young blood would run very wild in the veins of the students whose plans of "celebrating" were being set at naught by members of the opposite class. This year these two classes entered into an agreement to have a public contest in the athletic line, and the winning class was to have full sway in celebrating Washington's birthday without any molestion from the defeated class in the contest, "so long as the winning class would keep within reasonable bounds"

The plan was made to have a contest this evening at Music Hall. The sophomores to attest their part of the agreement, vowed not to shave nor have their hair cut until Washington's birthday, and while a few have violated the decision, still there will be a rush of business at the barber shops on Saturday. It has been whispered around all week, that while the freshman and sophomore classes had agreed not to inter-fere with the plans of the winning class, it was not taken into consideration that the junior class might revive the usual demon-strations for the defeated class in the con-test. The seniors and juniors always supstrations for the defeated class in the contest. The seniors and juniors always supported a favorite class in the strife.

At the athletic contest this evening there was a large audience present. The winning class had to get at least 56 points out of a possible 1il. Every first place counted five points, second place three points and third place one point. The contest was under the charge of the Wabash College Athletic Association. The judges were R. E. Berryhill, T. C. Matthews, Will Martin, jr., and A. S. Miller, none of whom are students. The contest was very spirited and lasted until S. Miller, none of whom are students. The contest was very spirited and lasted until 1 o'clock. The score stood 52 to 44, with the last two events, climbing greased pole and tug war, in dispute. The climbing of the greased pole, although in dispute, the judges favored the sophomores, which would give them a majority of the points. The tug of war did not take place owing to a dispute concerning the rules governing it. As it stands, the sophomores are eight points in the lead up to the pole-climbing event. It is close enough for both to celebrate to-morrow.

CUT HIS THROAT Because His Mistress Testified Against

Him in Court. Special to the Indianapolis Journal. TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Feb. 21.-Ed Riley, who was on trial to-day for assault with intent to kill William Wilmington, a professional baseball player in the minor leagues, cut his throat and may die. Riley's mistress testified against him, and when he was returned to the jail, at noon, he cut his throat with a razor in three places.

Kuhn Murder Cuse. Special to the Indianapolis Journal.

GREENSBURG, Ind., Feb. 21.-In the Kuhn murder case the examination of Dr. Samuel Kennedy was continued this morning. On a hypothetical question submitted by Judge Hord, attorney for the State, he gave it as his opinion that Edward Kuhn died from strychnia poisoning. After this opinion he was turned over to Charles W. Smith, attorney for defense, who put him through a cross-examination. James A. Hill testified he saw Edward Kuhn on the night he died. He was having convulsions, and his wife, defendant, was by his bedside holding his feet. He heard her say she gave him a capsule of quinine, and she took one herself. He was there an hour, when the defendant requested him to go and bring another doctor. She was crying and displayed affection for her husband. At the post mortem examination she objected to cutting up her husband, and said it was awful to bring the blood of her husband right before her. The testimony of this witness took the State by surprise, as it was favorable for the defense. Frank Rithers attended the funeral, and while the corpse was on the bier and being viewed heard the defendant say: "Oh, my, what have I done that this should occur?" Tob as Ford heard the defendant say: "My God, what did I do this for?" She was not crying, but made lots of noise. On cross-examination by Mr. Duncan it appeared that he had been an inmate of an asylum, and night he died. He was having convulsions, e had been an inmate of an asylum, and e said: "You bet, I never was insane." the had been married, but was divorced com his wife. This witness caused a great deal of amusement in the court room.

Mary Kuhn, sister of Edward Kuhn, stated that two months after the defendant was married she spat in her husband's

The Parker City Boom.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. PARKER CITY, Ind., Feb. 21 .- This morning the new oil well was found flowing at the rate of 200 barrels a day and is steadily increasing. The well is a good one and oil men who are here say it will pump from three to four hundred barrels of oil every twenty-four hours. J. D. Gumpper, J. K. McCracken and J. K. Mitchell, oil and gas men from Fort Wayne will return next week to begin sinking new wells. Clark Cook, S. S. Bames, George I. Richmine and John Condon, capitalists from Fowler, Ind., are here and are making arrangements Ind., are here and are making arrangements to put down oil wells on land which they bought at the beginning of the gas boom. Hon. Frederick W. Heath and L. H. Harper, of Muncle, came in at noon and have just closed deals for very valuable oil territory. At least $50,000 cash capital is represented here to-day and by night will probably all be invested in farms, leases and town property. The boom is flourishing. Ten new wells will be commenced on next week. Hundreds of people have visited the new well to-day and all are very enthusiastic over the good fortune which has fallen to Parker City.

Evidence of Unsound Mind.

special to the Indianapolis Journal. RICHMOND, Ind., Feb. 21 .- Dr. Orpheus Everts, of the College Hill Sanitarium, at Cincinnati, was on the witness stand to-day in the Morrison will case as a medical expert on insanity. He was introduced by the plaintiffs, who have one all-important thing to prove-that the mind of James L. Morrison was unsound at the time his last will was executed. In answer to a hypothetical question regarding the manner in which the wills of Mr. Morrison were made Dr. Everts said: "It is evidence to me of unsoundness, decided unsoundness. The departure from the first will without sufficient reason or cause is an evidence of mental unsoundness." The plaintiffs now not only have the testimony of more than a score of witnesses bearing on this point, but also that of two medical experts.

$3,000 for Three Hours in Jail. pecial to the Indianapolis Journal.

FRANKFORT, Ind., Feb. 21.-Mrs Elizabeth Hill, aged seventy, has brought suit against ex-Sheriff Hill, John Burris and N. T. Rice, asking for $3,000 damages for false imprisonment. Mrs. Hill is the mother of the notorious Jasper Hill, now serving a twelve-year sentence in the northern prison for robbery. Hill was taken to prison March 15, 1894, and while the sheriff and his prisoner were on the way to the depot the prisoner were on the way to the depot the mother made a vicious attack on the officer. Instead of being worked by the old lady's ruse, Sheriff Hill ordered his deputies, Burris and Rice, to arrest the woman and place her in jail. After remaining behind the bars for three hours the old lady was allowed to go her way. She considers her the old lady was allowed to go her way. imprisonment worth $1,000 an hour.

Anthony Comstock Wroth ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 21 .- At the hearing on the racing bill Anthony Comstock opposed the measure. He said the bill was not in the line of respectable legislation, and its one idea was to evade the Constitution and allow the boss gambler to still fleece the public. Shaking his fist at the gathering of racing men, Mr. Comstock said: "Shame on these racing men, who, for the sake of a little money, will wreck homes, sacrifice widows and children."

August Belmont said it was unnecessary for him to say that if the bill permitted for him to say that if the bill permitted anything like the abuses related by Mr. Comstock he would not come forward to speak in favor of it. He believed it would be unconstitutional to, by statute, make gambling possible, and that answered all of Mr. Comstock's argument, for an unconstitutional bill would be of no avail. The jockey club he represented has made racing respectable and honest, and was not now trying, as was alleged, to make it again disreputable. again disreputable.

Rusie Will Report in Florida. NEW YORK, Feb. 21 .- President Freedman, of the New York Baseball Club, announced to-day that he had received word from Amos Rusie that the latter had decided to accept the terms and wear the uniform of the Giants again this season. Rusie said he misunderstood Manager Davis's offer, and is sorry there should have been any comment. Mr. Freedman said that Westervelt, Fuller and Wilson had not signed, but he anticipated no trouble with the latter two. Westervelt had been made a liberal offer, but he is holding off, for what reason no one knows. Rusle, Meekin

Charles Fair Will Contest Alone. SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 21.—Reuben H. Joyd, attorney for Mrs. Herman Oelrichs and Miss Virginia Fair, announced positively to-day that his clients would not be a party to any contest of the will of their father, the late James G. Fair. Charles Fair will contest the will however. The Fair will contest the will, however. The question of admitting the will to probate was to have come up in the Superior Court this morning. Young Fair was present, ready to file his protest, but the whole matter was finally continued until March 2.

Diamond Thief Promptly Arrested. NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—A man apparently fifty-five years old, who refused to give his name, took a package containing diamonds valued at $10,000 from the establishment of M. Fox & Co., importers of gems, on the second floor of No. 1 Maiden Lane, at 1:15 o'clock this afternoon and was arrested five minutes later. On his person were found two packages of gems, only one of which, however, was identified as belonging to Fox & Co.

Verdict Against a Trust. PEORIA, Ill., Feb. 21.—In the Circuit Court here, to-day, a verdict was rendered awarding the Peoria Strawboard Company $32,256 damages against the American Strawboard Company for rent. The American company resisted the payment of the rental for the Peoria plant on the ground that the passage of the anti-trust law invalidated the contract. The case will be annealed.

THE KOLB BUGBEAR

ALABAMA DEMOCRATS TRYING TO WORK UP ANOTHER SCARE.

They Now Assert the Populist Intends to Establish a Dual Government-Oates Ready to Act.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Feb. 21 .- For some time the Kolbites have been threatening to establish a dual government in Montgomery after the Legislature adjourned, if a contest law was not passed, allowing Kolb to institute a contest for the office of Governor, to which he claims to be elected. A few days ago Kolb's paper at Birmingham contained a significant threat in which it said: "Kolb will act if the people will stand by him. Will they do it? Let every good citizen who is ready and willing to uphold the law and who recognizes the people's chosen leader send his name to the Tribune and the test will be made."

To-day news reached the city that Kolb was preparing to carry into execution his threat to establish a dual government in Montgomery, the Legislature having failed to pass such a contest law as he demanded. Governor Oates was called on at noon at the executive office and asked concerning the rumor. "I've not heard of Kolb's proposed dual government; but if he and his friends attempt it I shall act firmly and promptly. If they are seeking trouble they can get it. I shall maintain the majesty and supremacy of the law."

SENATORIAL DEADLOCKS.

George H. Williams May Take Mr. Dolph's Sent. SALEM, Ore., Feb. 21.-The Oregon Legislature will adjourn sine die next Saturday at 7 o'clock. This was decided to-day by the passage of a resolution in both houses fixing the time of adjournment. The contest for United States Senator is the all-absorbing topic. To-day Dolph lost two votes, and many predict his support will go to pieces to-morrow. The opposition to Dolph has centered in George H. Williams, ex-United States Attorney-general, who has 29 votes. The situation to-night seems to point to the selection of Williams, as he is believed to be the second choice of the Dolph men. Those who boited the caucus nominee undoubtedly favor Governor Lord as a first choice, but without the support of a number of Dolph men it would be impossible to elect unless the Democrats and Populists take a hand, and this is not likely to oc-To-day's ballot resulted: Dolph, 39; Williams, 30; Hare, 9; Baley, 7; absent, 4.

The Idaho Contest. BOISE, Ida., Feb. 21.-The House to-day with but five dissenting votes passed a memorial to Congress in favor of the election of Senators by direct vote of the people. There was one pair only and the vote for United States Senator resulted: Shoup, 19; Sweet, 18; C.aggett, 15. There is much nervousness to-night. A Populist caucus has been called to consider the senatorial matter. The situation appears to be that if Sweet cannot be elected by the Populists, enough of his men will leave him to elect Shoup. It may be stated with absorber lute confidence that a Senator will be elect-

The Delaware Deadlock. DOVER, Del., Feb. 21 .- But one ballot was taken in the United States senatorial fight to-day. It resulted as follows: Higgins, Rep., 9; Addicks, Rep., 6; Massey, Rep., 3; Wolcott, Dem., 9; Bayard, Dem., 1; Tunnell, Dem., 1. To Prevent Display of Foreign Flags.

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 21.-The Lawson flag bill forbidding the display of foreign flags on foreign buildings, passed the Senate after some debate by a vote of 20 to 6. It now goes to the Governor.

The bill submitting to the people the question of bonding the State for $9,000,000 for canal improvement has passed the Sen-ate-yeas, 20; nays, 4. It now goes to the GRADE OF LIEUTENANT GENERAL Interest in a Proposed Revival Not Confined to Army People.

Interest in the bill restoring the grade of lieutenant general in the army has not been confined to the proceedings in Con-gress nor to Major General John M. Schofield and his admirers, but it has been the subject of much comment among other of-ficers of the army and people outside of the army circles. The Senate bill Amply provided that the grade should be revived, in order that "when in the opinion of the in order that "when, in the opinion of the President and Senate, it shall be deemed proper to acknowledge distinguished servce of a major general of the army, the grade of lieutenant general may be spe-cially conferred," but "to expire and be of cially conferred," but "to expire and be of no effect after the grade shall have once been filled and become vacant." The object of the resolution was to enable the President to appoint Major General Schofield to be a lieutenant general, in order that he might be retired with that rank. The friends in Congress of the other major generals, and also of some of the brigadier generals, were so urgent in the matter that the House amended and passed the bill making the "rank of lieutenant general permanent in the case of the senior major general of the army in the discretion major general of the army in the discretion of the President." It having been reported that General Miles, who will be the senior major general on the retirement of Gen. Schofield in September next, was influential in the matter of the House amendment, he has written a letter to the committee denying that he has been arranged. denying that he has been arrayed against the proposition to limit the honor of the grade of lieutenant general to Gen.

The last lieutenant general of the army was Gen. Philip Sheridan, who was promoted to that grade on March 4, 1869. When General Sherman was retired from the active list in February, 1884, Lieutenant General Sheridan became full commander of the army. Finally, in May, 1888, Congress passed a bill to discontinue the grade of lieutenant general and to merge it into the grade of "General of the Army of the United States," with the provision to allow the promotion of Lieutenant General Sherthe promotion of Lieutenant General Sheridan to that grade, and that the grade should continue only during the lifetime of General Sheridan, "after which such grade shall also cease." Within two hours from the time that this bill reached President Cleveland General Sheridan was nominated for the highest grade, was confirmed by the Senate and a commission issued to him. The grade of lieutenant general was originated by an act of Congress of May ? inated by an act of Congress of May 28, 1798, and on July 3 following General Washington was appointed to that office, which he held until march 3, 1799, when an act creating the grade of "General of the Armies of the United States" and abolishing the grade of lieutenant general was approved. The grade of "lieutenant general" by brevet" was, however, established by a resolution of Feb. 15, 1855, "to acknowl-edge the eminent services of a major gen-eral of the army in the late war with Mexico," with the provision that, having been once filled and become vacant, the resolution establishing it should expire and be of winfield Scott was appointed "brevet lieutenant general," to rank from March 9, 1847. The grade of lieutenant general was not revived again until Feb. 29, 1864, and two days later General Grant was appointed to the position, and he continued to serve in that position until July 25, 1866, when an act was passed reviving the grade of general for his benefit. He served in that grade until he was inaugurated President on March 4, 1869, when he nominated Generals Sherman and Sheridan for appointment as general and lieutenant general, respectively. On July 15, 1870, an act was passed to the effect that the offices of general and lieutenant general should continue only unt'l a vacancy should occur in the same, when the act providing for those grades should be considered as having been repealed.

New York Building Trades Strike Not a Success.

NEW YORK, Feb. 21 .- Both sides, the contractors and workers, in the strike of the building trades spent all to-day in maneuvering for position. Only about one thousand men quit work, instead of the 15,000 predicted by walking delegates on the previous day, but the latter gave as a reason that they had not been called out. The contractors claim that it was because the men in other unions were not directly interested in the fight between the electrical contractors and their em-ployes, and that it was only with the great-est difficulty that the leaders could induce them to stop work. A special meeting of the Electrical Contractors' Association decided to continue the fight against the striking workers. No-tices that men had walked out on several jobs were received, as the contractors had Six Nonunionists Assaulted. ST. LOUIS, Feb. 21 .- Six nonunion men, employed in the spike mill at the Tudor fron works, in East St. Louis, were assaulted last night by unknown parties in the Cairo Short line yards with bricks, coal and coupling pins and chased through a muddy slough. They were on their way to their homes in St. Louis, and were passing through the Short line yards, which doin the mill grounds, when they were assaulted. All were bruised or gashed more or less, and none have returned to work. The strikers deny responsibility for the affair and claim to deplore it.

DAGO A DANGEROUS WORD. The Rev. Mr. Thoms Used It and Had to Resign.

New York Sun.

The force of epithets is largely a matter of locality. A term which, applied to a stroller on Fifth avenue, would result in a fight, is passed over contemptuously on the Bowery. In Grand street it isn't wise to term a man a loafer, unless he's a very small man, though almost any other characterization invented by the mind of man will be disregarded there. Similarly, Dago is an unpopular name in the Italian section. The Rev. J. C. Thoms, former pastor of the Mariners' Temple, a Baptist mission at Oliver and Henry streets, has found out this etymological truth, and it is largely due to the manner of his finding it out that he is no longer pastor there. He admits that when he used the word he didn't know it was loaded. He has looked it up since then and found it thus defined:

"Dago—a corruption of the name Diego. Originally one born of Spanish parents, especially in Louisiana, used as a proper name, and now extended to Spaniards, Portuguese and Italians in general."

From this statement Mr. Thoms is unable to perceive the reason for the outbreak following his use of the word on Wednesday night. He is inclined to believe, however, that the editors of the Century Dictionary have not grasped the full importance of New York Sun.

night. He is inclined to believe, however, that the editors of the Century Dictionary have not grasped the full importance of the term. When he writes a dictionary the definition of this particular noun will appear somewhat as follows:

"Dago—Probably formed of a combination of all the oaths and insulting epithets in the Italian language, usually applied to in the Italian language, usually applied to Italians by ill-advised persons of other nationalities. The use of this word by an unarmed person is likely to be followed by casualities, especially in certain parts of New York." Mr. Thoms's impressions of the word were acquired at the semi-annual meeting of the Mariner's Temple on Wednesday. There had been a great deal of feeling be-of the Mariner's Temple on Wednesday. There had been a great deal of feeling between two factions of the church, one led by Mr. Thoms and the other by Augustin Dassori, the Italian missionary. Half of the anti-Thoms faction, which had the majority, were Italians, and by the efforts of this faction Mr. Thoms was forced to resign, his resignation to take effect on Feb. 1, but by a patened-up arrangement this was withdrawn, and the pastor was to remain, with the resignation still hanging over him, however. There was a suspicion among the anti-Thomsites that the other faction was about to try to capture the meeting and legislate the minister back to his place as permanent pastor, so they gathered in force. Before the meeting Mr. Thoms preached a sermon on "Love." Then he left the pulpit and took the chair of the meeting. His supporters were grouped about him and the antis were in the rear. One of the Thomsites arose after the meeting was called to order and said:

"I move that only those who can speak English be allowed to vote."

This called forth shouts of indignation from the Italian group when it was explained to them, as it would throw the balance of power to their enemics. A big Italian jumped upon a seat and began a speech:

"Whadda you say? No spikka Ingless no ian jumped upon a seat and began a speech:
"Whadda you say? No spikka Inglees, no hava da vote! Italians no hava da vote, no come-a da church. Damn lie!" Some one pulled him down and Mr. Das Some one pulled him down and Mr. Dassori made an equally vigorous, if somewhat less profane protest, and was followed and supported by David A. Ralston, president of the Temple Rescue Band. Members of the Thoms party replied very warmly and when the vote was put there was much confusion. The result was greeted by triumphant shouts from the anti-Thomsites, who declared they had won. Mr. Thoms jumped up and pounded for order. Nobody paid any attention.

"Silence," he shouted. "silence. You're out of order. We won't allow this church to be run by Dagoes."

"Shame! Shame! Put him out of the chair. No Dago! No Dago! yelled the opposition.

"What do you mean by calling the church members dagoes?" demanded a man from "I've heard Mr. Dassori use the term him-self," shouted the minister. "I say that Dagoes can't run this church."

There was a rush from the rear and yells of fury from the Italians. Some of the cool-er heads formed a line across the aisle and met the rush firmly. A woman men the church who was in the van of the line seized a hymn book and brought it down with tremendous force on the head of an Italian who was trying to push past "There," she cried, "you'll get another you don't keep back." After a few moments the trouble was quelled and the anti-Thomsites carried everything. The word dago had done the business. Mr. Thoms resigned promptly and to-morrow a new minister will occupy the

GROVER TOOK BOTH DRINKS.

An Interesting Story in Which the President Figures Prominently. Washington Special.

Washington Special.

Somebody asked Secretary Lamont to take a dring the other day. Before the Colonel could reply somebody else told this story:

"That makes me think of the last time I heard some one give the Colonel the same invitation. It was during Cleveland's first term. The presidential party was in St. Louis reviewing the parade. It was a cold, blustering day, the sort of weather which makes one draw himself up into the smallest possible space. Governor Francis, who was doing the honors, looked at the President standing stoically in the face of the wind while the parade went by. Going to Colonel Lamont the Governor said:

"Colonel, do you—eh—think it would be "'Colonel Lamont the Governor said:

"'Colonel, do you—eh—think it would be right if I were to ask the President to—eh—take a drink of—eh—whisky? It is pretty cold, you know, and it would do him good."

"'Ask him to take a drink!" Lamont exclaimed. 'Good heavens, man! You mean to say that you have been with the President twenty-four hours and haven't asked him to take a drink?"

"The Governor booked somewhat surprised." "The Governor looked somewhat surprised, but at the same time relieved, admitted his guilt, and stepping up to the President, said: 'Mr. President.' The President, turning around, looked at him straight in the eye, which seemed to take the sand out of the Governor, who, blushing and stamments like of the Governor, who, blushing and stammering like a young man about to propose to his sweetheart, said:

"'Eh-Mr. President, do you know it is very cold to-day-eh-I thought that maybe, just by way of preventative, you know, that possibly you might think it wise to take a small grink of-eh-whisky.

"'Where is it?" the President, in a very business-like manner asked.

"'Eight this way,' said Governor Francis.

business-like manner asked.

"'Right this way,' said Governor Francis, and beckoning at the same time to Lamont and the Mayor, he led the party to a room which contained a table on which were four glasses half-filled with whisky.
